WHY WORRY ABOUT THE INTERNET?

CSAANY'S

"My child is safe!" "He or she is only on the computer."
"What could possibly happen?" If your child has unrestricted Internet access in their bedroom, on their cellphone or tablet, or video game system, a lot could happen.

They could be in contact with strangers, give out personal information, or do anything that is inappropriate." You are right, you know your child. But you don't know the millions of people who are accessing the Internet at the same time as your child.

There are very clever individuals in this world who get pleasure out of introducing children to inappropriate material, language, or situations. By educating yourself about the Internet and the potential risks you can protect your child and continue to ensure that Catholic teaching you value are part of your child's life. The Internet is a wonderful tool. And with all tools, with parental guidance and oversight, the Internet can be used effectively by youth.
